LEGISLATIVE BRANCH, 2027

The Legislative Branch appropriations bill for Fiscal Year 2027 provides $7.56 billion in discretionary funding. The bill supports Congress' legislative and oversight capacity and continues investment in physical and cybersecurity initiatives.

- Supports the U.S. Capitol Police's most critical needs, including the hiring of sworn officers and civilians, expanding protective and intelligence operations, and enhancing technology and physical security programs.
- Bolsters the research and support agencies that assist lawmakers in carrying out their legislative duties.
- Continues funding for Member security programs.
- Provides the Architect of the Capitol with funding to support the day-to-day operations of the Capitol and to prioritize critical capital improvement projects related to life-safety and security.

Bill Highlights

U.S. Senate: $1.6 billion to support the security and operations of the U.S. Senate.

U.S. House of Representatives: $2.1 billion to support the security and operations of the U.S. House of Representatives.

U.S. Capitol Police: $965 million to support the men and women of the Capitol Police as they protect the Capitol complex.

Government Accountability Office (GAO): $860 million to support GAO's oversight of federal expenditure of taxpayer dollars.

Architect of the Capitol: $883.1 million for the maintenance, preservation, and physical security of the Capitol complex.

Library of Congress: $878.5 million for the Library of Congress, including $140 million for the Congressional Research Service, $67.7 million for the National Library Service for the Blind and Print Disabled, and $106.5 million for the Copyright Office.

Congressional Budget Office: $76.3 million to expand transparency efforts and responsiveness to Congressional requests.